Introduction To Our Builder

Brad Powell is a General Contractor with an unlimited license who has a wide range of experience building conventional-framed stone and wood style homes, various styles of log homes, and hybrid heavy-timber/conventional homes. Along with his wife Lisa, who is the financial administrator, there is an expansive team from project managers to on-site superintendents that brings over 150 years of experience to their residential building projects.

Living and working in Morganton, NC, all of his life, Brad has built a quality reputation among building inspectors, environmental health inspectors, sub-contractors, craftsman, and vendors. All are a vital necessity to any building project; and West-Powell Residential Design-Build brings all of these individual professionals together in one cohesive network. This truth is summed up in Brad's simple motto, "we're in the people business more than we're in the building business". Brad understands that listening and communicating are the most important tasks that his team performs with every client. Since the majority of homes are built for out-of-town clients, trust is paramount, and the quality of craftsmanship exceeds the client's expectations upon each new visit to their construction-site.

What Our Clients Are Saying:

Mike and Paula Brattin of Peoria, Illinois

- "Paula and I have been extremely pleased with the performance of the Powell Group throughout the process of building our beautiful log home in the Lake James community. Before construction began, we had concerns that issues would come up which we would not be able to decide because of being located in Florida, at the time, while the home was being built in North Carolina. Our concerns vanished after our first call with the Powell Group. The professionalism of Brad and his whole staff gave us confidence that we could rely on the Powell Group to deliver what they had promised. The integrity of the Powell Group and the quality of their work is probably what stands out most about our experience in building our mountain dream home. No short cuts were taken, no false promises were made, and the quality was superior to anything we imagined. Brad and his staff were always friendly and very knowledgeable about all aspects of design and construction. We would highly recommend the Powell Group to anyone considering building a home."

Terre and Pete Colabella of Cooper City, FL

- “We can’t say enough good things about having our dream home built by The Powell Group. We were nervous to build a home in North Carolina, while still living in Florida. However, The Powell Group were the most conscientious, trustworthy, efficient builders one could hope for in building our home. Their workmanship is beyond compare. They have excellent work ethics; they keep their job sites spotless. They truly go above and beyond!! They are not only our dream home builder but we consider them our friends.”

PJ Anson, Jr. of Jensen Beach, FL

- “I have been involved with many construction projects in my line of business and I can say without hesitation, our Mountain Lodge Project we did with The Powell Group required the least management, was the most organized, was the highest quality and was the most enjoyable construction project I have ever been involved with. The end results far exceeded our expectations. If we ever build another home in the area we will definitely use The Powell Group.”

John Krawczyk of Jacksonville, FL

- “Our early fears of living 450 miles away from the construction of our mountain dream home were quickly put at ease after our initial meetings with Brad Powell and Robert Miller. The professionalism and understanding from not only these two gentlemen, but also the whole construction team made our construction process stress free. The quality of construction is evident as soon as you enter our cabin and can be seen in every fine detail. The Powell Group still holds old-fashioned values as they deliver exactly what they promise. We have been in our home for one year and could not be more pleased with every aspect of our experience with The Powell Group.”

Todd Black, President of Grandview Peaks Development

- “I started working with The Powell Group 3 years ago when they built our sales office on my mountain community Grandview Peaks. We were so satisfied with the entire experience that we recommend The Powell Group to all of our customers. Because of the quality and unique designs of their homes they have been the overwhelming choice of our customers.”
